London, Feb. 27.—The monarchists of Germany are contemplating an early coup d'état, in the opinion of the Mail's correspondent at Berlin, who says that the old officer class, with its general staff, has been gradually getting the whip hand there since January 13, and now holds the government in its power.

"The threatened coup d'état would be carried out in Berlin alone," it writes and, "would probably for a time be successful, although it would certainly result in ruthless civil war and unscrupulous political murders. A large number of officers are said to be associated in the plot which aims at the overthrow of the present government and the restoration of the old order of things."

"A secret meeting of monarchist officers was held at Charlottenburg on Feb. 16. It was summoned by Major von Herringen, son of the former secretary of war. Thirty officers attended and each is said to have pledged himself to hold in his residence a quantity of munitions ready for an emergency and to assemble at a certain place when called upon. Every member of the plot has been requested to enlist as many officers loyal to the former emperor as possible. It is understood that the government has been warned of what is going on."

The correspondence says the organization of new bodies of troops by the government, a step which alone would save it from the monarchists and other extremists has been possible only by reason of the government yielding to the old officer class which he says, "has already bullied the government into winking at the monarchist crimes and arbitrary acts, which have been committed."

SOLDIER GETS ON TRAIN; LOSES TICKET

A soldier named Snyder was taken off a Pennsylvania train in this city shortly after midnight this morning on complaint of the conductor that Snyder would not pay his fare and had no ticket. The soldier claimed his ticket was taken up by another conductor at Columbus and investigation developed that he boarded a Big Four train and went the wrong direction. He was off at Columbus, came back to Columbus and caught the Pennsy. He was released this morning and had sufficient funds to go on to his home at West Lafayette.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM] Washington, Feb. 27.—While rising above the capital today, just before President Wilson marched up Pennsylvania avenue at the head of a parade of homecoming soldiers, an army captive balloon broke from its moorings, swayed by a strong wind and landed nine miles away without a pilot. Lieutenant G. H. McMillan, the pilot, is believed to have jumped in his parachute.

Private McGruder went across with the 24th infantry of the 89th division but was later transferred. He was still in the hospital on January 25 when the letter was written but stated he was able to be up and expected to be sent home soon. NEGRO BEGGARS ARE PICKED UP BY POLICE

Three negroes were picked up on the order of Police Chief Sheridan on the charge of begging and scolding women in East Newark. The negroes claim that they came to the city to find work to do in one of the local factories. They were warned to keep off the streets, quit begging and go to work else they would be put away where they could not cause any more trouble. Chief Sheridan has asked a strict order to all patrolmen to pick up any strange colored men found loitering or prowling about. In the last few weeks there has been quite a influx of negroes in the city and the police department is seeking a way to put them

Abbey.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

London, Feb. 27.—Princess Patricia of Connaught and Commander Alexander R. M. Ramsey, R. N., were married at Westminster Abbey at noon today. No other social event since the outbreak of the war has created such public interest. Crowds assembled early in the day along the route over which the princess drove with her father, the Duke of Connaught from St. James Palace to Westminster Abbey, about which throngs waited patiently for a glimpse of the royal bride.

The ceremony was performed by the Archbishop of Canterbury, assisted by the dean of Westminster and other noted ecclesiastics, in the presence of King George and Queen Mary and a select assembly of members of the royal family, distinguished officials of the British and foreign governments and friends and visitors from abroad.

Ambassador and Mrs. John W. Davis were present. The Prince of Wales made a special visit from the continent to attend the ceremony. In the fashionable audience in the great nave of the abbey seats were found for a number of the many friends of the princess among the plain people, and also representatives of charitable organizations in which she was interested. The abbey was not decorated, the princess asking that no attempt be made to supplement with flowers the classic beauty of the ancient edifice.

The bride was given away by her father. Court mourning over the death of Prince John was waived for the occasion and the elegant gowns of the ladies lent a festive air to the assembly.

The wedding presents which are still arriving number nearly 700 and range from homely market baskets to priceless diamonds.

the Federal Employment Agency—Asks For Cooperation.

While the employment situation in Newark is gradually improving, the local office of the United States Employment Service which is now in charge of Superintendent D. P. Stewart, is desirous of a closer cooperation of the employers and employees. There are many positions unfilled at the office and there are many deserving work who have not been placed. The bureau keeps an occupational list, classifying the men as skilled or semi-skilled, laborers, technical and professional. At the present time there is an unfilled demand for nurses and domestic help.

When the bureau desires most is when an employer asks for help in state service. What is wanted, says Stewart, is that the applicant for a position give his full qualifications. The bureau sent 26 South Sea islanders to the city and has been in charge of Superintendent Stewart since January 1, when Arthur H. Schroeder resigned to return to the French coast command.

Avenue to Capitol

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Washington, Feb. 27.—Washington gave President Wilson its formal welcome home today by turning out in thousands to cheer a parade down Pennsylvania avenue, headed by the president in honor of homecoming soldiers of the capital.

Marching with a swinging stride the president took the lead as the procession started from Peace monument at the Capitol grounds. Army airplanes and dirigibles hovered overhead.

The president marched from the Capitol to the White House at the head of a parade today of the district's returned soldiers and then from a stand in front of the executive mansion reviewed the procession.

Washington today resembled an inauguration day with Pennsylvania avenue—the line of march—decorated with flags and bunting. Many of the decorations had been put in place Monday in honor of the president's return. Plans of local committees to make the celebration also a welcome to the president were abandoned at the request of Mr. Wilson, who just before leaving Paris sent a cablegram asking that no public reception be accorded him upon his arrival, but agreeing to participate in a demonstration for returned troops.

The parade was planned as one of the most elaborate—excepting inaugural processions—in the city's history. It was estimated that it would require two hours for it to pass in review before the president and Mrs. Wilson.

The returned soldiers, led by the marine band, were assigned with the president to the honor position at the head of the parade. They were followed by units of the army engineer corps from Camp Humphreys, Va., marines from the marine barracks here, sailors from the navy yard, newsmen of the city and of the district, Red Cross nurses and representatives of the many war relief organizations, and local organizations. Convalescent soldiers from Walter Reed army hospital were given a place in the reviewing stand.

L. C. Stouffer of this city and Henry Smith of Denison, members of the police department of the Pennsylvania railway had narrow escapes from death last night at the hands of a crazed negro at Denison. The two officers were on duty and saw the negro near the tracks and called upon him to halt. The negro turned and raising a rifle fired two shots, neither of which were effective.

Officer Stouffer pulled his gun and emptied it at the negro but he was far away and the officer missed his quarry. Just then a hilarious individual from a nearby drink emporium picked up the negro and started for the negro who fired two shots at him but did not hit him. The hilarious one came down with a swat and the negro dropped from the blow on his head and Stouffer and Smith pounced upon him.

The negro pulled an automatic revolver from his pocket and pressed it against Stouffer's face and pulled the trigger but the cartridge did not explode as the safety was locked. The officers used the butts of their guns and overpowered the burly African and he was taken unconscious to the city prison where he was charged with assault with intent to kill.

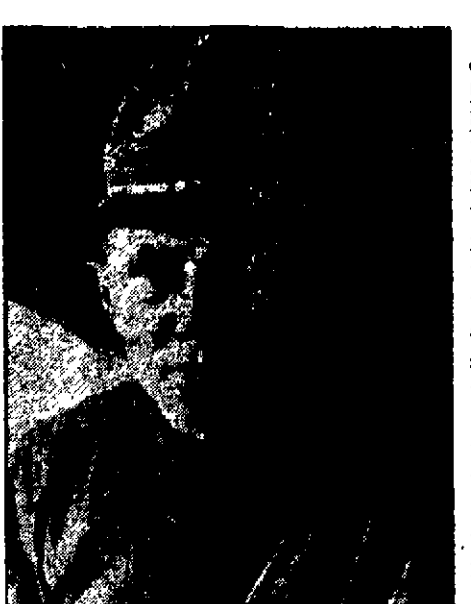

SUFFS WILL HEAR
GOV. COX IN SPEECH

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Columbus, Feb. 27.—Governor Cox and three Republicans and three Democrats from the Ohio General Assembly were scheduled to address the Ohio Woman Suffrage association at a luncheon at noon today. The speakers are: Charles F. Brannan, Republican, who left for the city of Washington; John H. Reynolds, Democrat of Cleveland; and Speaker Kimbrell, Representative from Harrison county and Representative H. H. Griswold, Republican. All are present speakers.

The annual election of officers of the suffrage association was in progress this morning. All the old officers, including Mrs. Harriet Taylor, Union president of Warren and Miss Eliza Beth Houser, secretary of Carroll, are expected to be re-elected.

Miss Houser, Allen of Carroll, is a former wife of the principal speaker at a dinner tonight to which members of the legislature have been invited.

PRIVATE WALTER GREELY.

"Bring back my daddy to me," is the daily lullaby of Mary Catherine Greely, whose daddy helped lick the Hun and is now winding up the "watch on the Rhine."

Mary Catherine is 5 months old and as her daddy has been kept pretty busy over in France, he has not had time to greet her. No wonder the hours drag while he waits for the Paris conference to arrange the peace terms and makes it possible for the troops to return home. Mary Catherine was five weeks old when she faced the camera for this picture so she will be quite a young woman when daddy gets home.

She is one of the Licking county babies who have never seen their father. There are a number of others. If you know of them, have the mother or grandmother send their pictures to the Advocate.

These pictures will be printed from day to day in the Advocate. Readers of this paper would like to know all these "sons and daughters of veterans" and the Advocate is glad to introduce them.

Mail the photos to the Advocate or call this office on the telephone and arrangements will be made to secure the pictures.

to Pick Candidate For Presiding Officer.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Washington, Feb. 27.—Republican members-elect of the next house of representatives gathered here today from all parts of the country for the conference tonight with the elected Republican members to nominate candidates for speaker.

Despite the confident statements of the rival campaign managers in the three-cornered fight for the speakership, it was evident from the active attention showered on the first term men that nothing was being left undone to win their votes.

The three candidates for the nomination, which is virtually the election as only a split in the Republican ranks would enable the Democrats to organize the next house are Representative F. H. Gillett of Massachusetts, ranking Republican member of the appropriations committee; James R. Mann, of Illinois, Republican floor leader; Philip Campbell of Kansas, ranking Republican of the rules committee. Managers of the Gillett and Mann campaigns each claimed the victory of their favorite, perhaps on the first ballot. Supporters of Mr. Campbell, an eleven-hour entrant in the contest, predicted their favorite would win the nomination as a compromise candidate.

Mr. Gillett will receive 140 votes, but Mr. Mann will get 120 votes, two more than enough to elect, said Representative Winslow, of Massachusetts, campaign manager for the New England candidate.

"Representative Gillett can claim 140 votes, but Mr. Mann will get 120 votes, two more than enough to elect," said Representative Winslow, of Massachusetts, campaign manager for the New England candidate.

POLAND CONCERNED
OVER U. S. ATTITUDE

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Warsaw, Tuesday, Feb. 25.—The attitude of the United States regarding Poland's business problems is a question of deep concern here. "The key to Polish-American business is a statement made by New York to Poland," said Stanislaw Karlowicz, a director in one of the prominent banks of Warsaw to the Associated Press today, while commenting on the failure of any American commercial mission to visit Poland.

"The presence of business men to missions, since the latter merely make reports and the former fix up matters," he continued.

"But a steamship line from New York to Poland must be based on two conditions. First, that the peace conference gives us Danzig and second that we are able to get our credit guaranteed."

SAY HUN ENVOYS
HAVE LEFT SPA

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Geneva, Wednesday, Feb. 26.—This evening's Swiss newspapers print a Berlin dispatch stating that owing to the sudden suspension of armistice negotiations, the German commission left Spa this morning for Berlin. The suspension of the armistice negotiations is not given. General Ludendorff, is expected to arrive in Berlin tomorrow and Field Marshal von Hindenburg will go there shortly.

Negotiations between allied and German financial, economical and military missions have been in progress at Spa for some time, but there has been no information from allied sources that anything of a nature of a crisis had developed there. In the absence of definite information, it would seem probable that the meetings, if they have been broken, as reported, have suspended only temporarily. On February 14, Marshal Foch presented to the German armistice commission at Treves the provisions for an extension of the armistice between the allies and Germany. These provisions he received from the supreme council of the peace conference. They were accepted by the German armistice commission for the national assembly at Weimar, and were signed by the German delegates on the evening of February 16.

NO NEWS HERE.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Washington, Feb. 27.—Officials here believe that Berlin dispatches published in Switzerland referring to "suspension" of the armistice negotiations either were based upon misinformation or have been misconstrued by the Swiss press. No advices have been received in Washington casting doubt upon earlier dispatches reporting the conclusion of the negotiations with the acceptance by the Germans of drastic renewal conditions.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]

Columbus, Feb. 27.—The joint taxation committee of the legislature having decided upon a plan for temporary relief for cities and other local taxing districts, today tackled the problem of securing increased revenues for road maintenance and road repair.

The committee has practically decided that the solution of this problem lies in a graduated tax on motor vehicles and may adopt the suggestion of the Ohio State Grange of applying a tax of from $10 on a small car up to $85 on a ten ton truck. Such a tax it is estimated, would raise from $7,000,000 to $10,000,000 annually.

W. A. Aldorf, president of the Ohio Good Roads Federation, before the joint taxation committee today urged enactment of the proposed privilege tax on motor vehicles which would be levied on the basis of the value of the vehicle. Aldorf, secretary of the Ohio Automobile Association, spoke against the proposal, declaring it was unconstitutional until classification of property is provided for.

Mr. W. O. Thompson, president of the Ohio State University, appearing before the committee this morning, said he was in favor of the movement to have teaching of German in the elementary schools but asserted that it was necessary to teach the language in colleges and universities.

"But we should make sure that the teachers of the language are competent Americans," Dr. Thompson declared.

President Thompson did not express any opinion on the controversy between the legislature and the executive department over the Coming school bill.

GRANVILLE

(Special to The Advocate.)
Granville, Feb. 27.—The meeting of delegates from each woman's organization in the community for the purpose of forming a federation, was held Wednesday in the Baptist church with an attendance of some 40 women. Mrs. Stuckney was made temporary secretary, and Mrs. Theodore Johnson, secretary pro tem. On motion the roll of organizations was called and the representatives responding were enrolled as charter members of the prospective league. Reasons for support proposed action were given and support pledged by the delegates present in behalf of their separate organizations. A woman's club house; the public library; a kindergarten; better facilities for public school children in the matter of gymnasium, manual training, and so forth; civic improvement; the betterment of local conditions, were among the considerations cited as calling for cooperation all along the line, and a final yes-or-no vote carried unanimously in favor of the community federation of Granville women. The informal nomination of Mrs. Stuckney as president, Mrs. D. Thompson, vice president, Mrs. Fred McCallum, secretary, Mrs. James A. Huxton, treasurer. Roll-call revealed the fact that there were over 20 absentees from the meeting, who doubtless will appear at the second meeting to be held on Wednesday afternoon, March 12, in the Baptist church, when the organization will be perfected by the election of important standing officers.

RENEWED TESTIMONY

No one in Newark who suffers backache, headaches, or distressing urinary ills can afford to ignore this Newark woman's twice-told story. It is confirmed testimony that no Newark resident can doubt.

Mrs. Chas. Korseborn, 123 Fleek avenue, says: "I suffered terrible pains in the small of my back. At times I was so dizzy I could hardly stand up without putting my hand to the wall to steady myself. The way my kidneys were acting was giving me a lot of distress. One of my relatives had used Doan's Kidney Pills with good results and advised me to try them. I bought a box at R. W. Smith's drug store and had relief from the start. By the time I had taken one box I felt like a new person and was over the kidney trouble. I can now do my housework as well as I ever did." (Statement given Sept. 15, 1918.)

IT'S THE TEST.
On February 7, 1917, Mrs. Korseborn said: "All I said in my former statement in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills I confirm today. The cure Doan's made has been permanent."

PROMINENT DOCTORS EXCITED AND AMAZED

They Are Worked Up Over The Action of Phosphated Iron Making The Weak Strong

Victims of weak nerves and run down systems due to lack of pure blood are glad to know that there is, according to the best physicians a reliable remedy for them.

Man who were steadily going down hill to permanent illness and nervous breakdown have regained perfect health by taking Phosphated Iron, the new blood and nerve food.

One elderly woman said, "I was all in, looked and felt like the last run of shad, was clear discouraged without knowing it, or indeed New York at me. I have the good health and bubbling spirits of a girl of eighteen, eat and sleep well. It made a new man of my husband too. And though at night, we along in years we both face the future with confidence, knowing that as long as our blood is charged with good health giving Iron and Phosphates we are safe."

Again a bookkeeper who used it says: "If ever a man had a case of nerves it was me. I could not sleep at night, the least sound made me jump, appetite gone, everything was up hill work and I felt myself slipping every day. My doctor said: 'Try Phosphated Iron. It is the exact remedy you require.' The first week I improved; my nerves straightened down, my sleep, my appetite and digestion improved, and it seemed to me that I could almost feel the Phosphates and Iron feeding my weak watery blood and tired nerves. I now weigh 25 lbs. more than I ever did, and much stronger."

A prominent physician to whom the above statements were submitted said: "Yes, Phosphated Iron is easily the most wonderful Iron prescription yet discovered, its ingredients are well known to all blood and nerve specialists and widely prescribed by them. I have used it very successfully in my own practice and cured many patients where other physicians had failed. I can highly recommend it for all cases of weak nerves and poor blood, as well as general loss of tone, with absence of appetite. It seldom fails me in this class of cases."

Special Notice: To insure doctors and their patients getting the Genuine Phosphated Iron, we put in capsules only, so no one allows dealers to sell you pills or tablets.

IT'S NOT YOUR HEART; IT'S YOUR KIDNEYS

Kidney disease is no respecter of persons. A majority of the ills afflicting people today can be traced back to the kidney trouble.

The kidneys are the most important organs of the body. They are the filters of your blood. If the poisons which are swept from the tissues by the blood are not eliminated through the kidneys, disease of one form or another will claim you as a victim.

Kidney disease is usually indicated by weariness, sleeplessness, nervousness, despondency, backache, stomach trouble, pain in loins and lower abdomen, gait stony, gravel, rheumatism, sciatica and lumbago.

All these derangements are nature's signals that the kidneys need help. You should use GOLD MEDAL Harelem Oil Capsules immediately. The soothing, healing oil stimulates the kidneys, relieves inflammation and destroys the germs which have caused it. Go to your druggist today and get a box of GOLD MEDAL Harelem Oil Capsules. In twenty-four hours you should feel health and vigor returning.

After you feel somewhat improved continue to take one or two capsules each day, so as to keep the first-class condition and ward off the danger of other attacks.

Ask for the original imported GOLD MEDAL brand. Three sizes. Money refunded if they do not help you.

HONEY OF CANADA AND CUBA ARE NOW IN WORLD RIVALRY

The spreading alfalfa fields of Southern Alberta are competing with Cuba as the source of imported honey for the United States. The big stimulus to the world's appetite for honey due to the world's shortage of sugar, brought the industry into new prominence and profitability. Honey as substitute for sugar became a live issue during the war, and its value as a highly concentrated food has maintained the growing demand.

Most of the honey produced in the United States comes from the Pacific coast, one-fifth of the 54,814,890 pounds produced each year as a by-product on farms not devoted to commercial production of honey alone, coming from California. Besides that, the United States imports annually hundreds of thousands of pounds from Mexico and particularly Cuba, where the industry has had government assistance. Now Canadian farmers are taking the field and have entered their fat fields of alfalfa and clover against the Cubans' miles of wild flowers. Manitoba's 1918 production went to 1,000,000 pounds, valued at $300,000. A single farmer in Southern Alberta obtained 1,000 pounds from thirty hives. British Columbia's honey crop of 225 tons recorded a 30 per cent increase over 1917. And the growing of honey rich crops has scarcely begun.

Western honey brings three to eleven cents a pound more than eastern honey because of its high quality and fine flavor. Farmers have found that the long sunny days which give extra weight to their plump hard wheat also keep the honey bee humming long hours, with profit to its keeper.

In other localities, notably in the northwest, the middle west and the east, bee raising has offered golden rewards which recent war needs have multiplied.

BRER RABBIT.

In the days of Uncle Remus, Brer Rabbit was a hero. Gifted with super wits, he eluded the wily fox. By craft his sagacious little head lorded it over the more powerful beasts of the forest.

In these degenerate and unimaginative days, people think of the rabbit merely as game, as a pet, or as raw material for meat pie. Interest in rabbit culture is growing. The Game Association wants him preserved and in many states are deploring his scarcity, but in others he is abundant. In these days when wild game is depleted he offers some slight consolation to the disappointed Nimrod.

A few years ago there was started a craze for raising Belgian hares. All the newspapers printed articles on their merits as a food supply. People who went into it were called rather "hare brained."

However, some folks who handled it right are now displaying their $109 buck rabbit at the pet stock show. We have a number of Belgian hare breeders here in Newark. Dr. Jackson received a fine rabbit a few days ago for which he paid a fancy price.

The humble little rabbit is not to be disregarded as a meat supply. The French, thrifty folks that they are, know his value. American soldier boys who have seen hells of French villages are coming home with some observations on this point. They tell how the French women start every afternoon with bags in which they collect green stuff around the neighborhood and bring home to the fluffy bunnies, who furnish a constant food supply.

Most live American boys have had the rabbit fever. It usually follows the frog killing age, is contemporaneous with the postage stamp craze, and precedes the hen fever. A pair of rabbits can usually be purchased for 50 cents from a more mature and disillusioned kid, and sold for the same price after the temperature has gone down. But in these days of meat scarcity, the boys should find the rabbit pen acquires a commercial basis. But it will always come hard to part with the furry little pets.

A few years ago one could buy in the Newark market a dressed rabbit for about 15 cents. Rabbits now sell for 60 cents or more. Asked the reason for the big advance, one clerk attributed it to the high cost of ammunition but at another stand a more reasonable explanation was given. "Why," said she, "there's as much meat on a rabbit as on a chicken and look at the price of chickens." We are about half inclined to start a rabbit farm.

There's a hungry world in line, waiting for Uncle Sam to ring the dinner bell.—Atlanta Constitution.

ATTITUDE OF GERMANY.

Some anxiety is expressed over the attitude which the Germans are taking. They give little sign of repentance for their outrages. It is very doubtful if they give any but a forced assent to the terms of peace. They are constantly throwing out intimations that a new war may arise, if various points, regarded by the allies as essential to a just peace are insisted upon.

If the Germans get the idea that this country and its allies are so sick of war that they would not fight again, it would not be many years before the Germans would break loose again. But if this country and its allies take a firm position, say what they mean and mean what they say, there is little chance of trouble for a long time.

But the allied government will need to be on their guard for many years. Mere talk will not suffice. There must be a considerable degree of military preparation, and a spirit among the people that will tolerate neither trifling nor perfidy. The enemies of America must understand that the United States means business and will back up its words with acts if it has to.

The Germans have now acquired respect for American fighting ability, which they never entertained before. If they get it thoroughly into their heads that the American people will not tolerate their plans for aggression, and will go the limit to help block them, the Germans will settle down and behave very quietly.

The most brutal bully is very meek and humble when he sees a man with a big club who shows a determination to use it on a pinch.

VIOLENCE NOT TOLERATED.

It is a sign of progress that the labor troubles recently reported have not resulted in much violence. It has been made clear to all concerned that the people simply will not tolerate the use of physical force as a means of winning labor conflicts.

The leaders of the unions, except the Bolshevik element, understand this quite well now, and issue warnings to their followers not to resort to lawless acts. This however does not always restrain the impetuous from threats and intimidation that are practically equivalent to physical force.

The people as a whole feel a vital interest in having these controversies settled in a peaceful and legal way, and not arbitrated by bloodshed. The presence of United States troops at the recent strikes at Butte and Seattle showed that a firm stand will be taken. There is widespread approval of Mayor Hanson of Seattle, who when an attempt was made to Russinize his city by Bolsheviks, proceeded to enforce order and says he will do so until his successor is elected.

The people want these problems fought out at the ballot box, in the deliberative assemblies of the state and nation, and by fair arbitration and conference. If any elements attempt to settle them in any other way, they will incur the active hostility and determined resolve of the great mass of Americans.

Instead of being discouraged at the widely prevailing industrial unrest, there is rather ground for encouragement, that the great majority of the labor forces are willing to submit their case to peaceful adjustment. The American people have settled great and troublesome questions before, and they will see that justice is done in this one.

AN INVITATION TO DINNER.

(Ohio State Journal.)
President Wilson invited the senators to lunch with him next Wednesday, at which time he would explain to them the provisions of the treaty of peace. President Wilson knows more about that treaty than any other man in the world and he is able to give the fullest information on the subject to it. In making the invitation, he suggested that there be no discussion of the treaty until he made his explanation of it. That was a very reasonable request and any man whose desire for truth was more to himself than a show of spleen should have accorded it the courtesy it asked.

This desire for oratorical clamor by certain senators is a disgrace to the state. There is an affection about it that it has become a true man. If there is an opportunity to get more truth on a subject, why this rage to rush into controversy when one is simply half-cocked. It looks as if the man who is so eager for the fray is afraid that more knowledge would blind his conceit. There is too much of this anxiety to orate. It is not the road to truth or justice. It is always a one-sided outburst of passion. We have no abused the liberty of speech that we have almost endangered the public welfare. The angriest man in the senate ought to hear what the president has to say, even if he thought it impossible for anyone to know more than he himself does.

ASSASSINATIONS.

(Philadelphia Record.)
Will any nihilist, or anarchist, or I. W. W., please explain what even the most successful assassination of rulers could accomplish that he cries about? He is against the Government, but even in an autocracy the Government consists of many men, and when one is killed the political machine goes on just as it did before.
I. W. W. Booth shot Mr. Lincoln as a matter of revenge. The United States had suppressed secession, and Booth relieved his feeling of hatred by killing Mr. Lincoln. The worst enemy of the South could not have done it a greater injury. The United States Government was not affected, and would not have been if all the assassinations that were intended to occur at the same time had succeeded. Giltner was a man of much less intelligence, yet he had mind enough to be capable of reasoning about his acts. President Garfield had quarreled with Roscoe Conkling, but the reled with Roscoe Conkling, but the "stalwarts" in possession of the Government, because he had heard Emma Goldman denounce all rulers as enemies of the common people, but even his limited intelligence was capable of understanding that killing the head of the Government did not kill the Government, and of what use was it to Emma Goldman or any of her associates?
Assassination has been tried repeatedly in Russia, and no nihilist can point to any result, except greater police severity. When the revolution came, it was successful without assassination. Nicholas II has probably been murdered since his murder was not the means of securing the revolution. A man like Count Arco Valley must be a fool to think that the murder of Kurt Eisner would not overthrow the minority Socialists or restore the Bavarian royal house. It is quite likely to have the opposite effect of infuriating the reds and leading to wholesale massacres of what is lifted above the common herd by the magic prefix of "von."
An insurrection, whether justifiable or not, is perfectly intelligible and reasonable. It aims to change the Government to transfer it from one set of men to another. But an individual assassination does not aim at nothing, except a single wheel in a vast machine. If assassination could be practiced on so great a scale as to destroy the rulers in a country and intimidate other men from succeeding them, it could be understood; but it is never undertaken on such a grand scale; it never aims at more than three or four murders, and the wildest anarchist in the world ought to know that homicide on so petty a scale is absolutely ineffective.
If the persons assassinated were especially oppressive or cruel, singling them out for murder could be justified. But generally the victims of assassinations are not individually hated; they are killed merely because they are conspicuous figures in a hated political system. This has never led to any of the things the anarchists think they want, and it never can. It only leads the murderers to the gallows.

THE JOY OF DOING.

(Atlanta Constitution.)
There is little in this life that affords the normal person greater satisfaction and pleasure than the consciousness of having successfully fulfilled a responsibility—of having done well a task.
Be that task great or little, the immediate effect upon the senses is the same. For example, President Wilson, having done his duty, is not a bit less the leader of nations constitution was, no doubt, a happy and a satisfied man when he boarded the George Washington and set sail for home.
But, according to the press dispatches, the "happiest man in press" that day was Eugene Merriman, who, as master of transportation, was entrusted to see that none of the thousands of pieces of presidential party baggage was left behind when the historic transport sailed.
He was happy because he had done his work well, and it is reported that, as the big liner bore toward the Atlantic, Merriman, "rubbing his hands in satisfaction, cried gleefully: 'Not a piece of luggage missing!'"
There is keen and peculiar sense of gratification on the doer's part to be able to inscribe "finis" upon a well-done piece of work.
No matter whether the work be great or commonplace, the effect is the same. Thus the humblest carpenter has a right to feel as proud upon the completion of a cottage, if he is satisfied with what he has done, as the master builder upon applying the finishing touches to a skyscraper.
And it is doubtful if the engineer, showing his employer's board of directors—the completed structure and exclaiming with sincere pride, "There's your dam, gentlemen!" or "Here's your bridge!" or if a Goethals, upon being able to cable his government employer: "The job's done, and I'm doubtful if either could experience a greater sense of self-gratification in the fulfilled responsibility behind him than did Sergeant Merriman in being able to say to himself as the president's ship sailed out of the harbor, "Not a piece of luggage missing!"
Indeed, it is stimulating, joyous and altogether worth while to do—to do well whatever is undertaken.

Afraid To Tell Mother!

The child won't play or smile. He is real sick. His tongue is white, breath feverish, stomach sour. He fears he is in for a dose of awful castor oil, calomel or pills. How he hates them. He would rather remain sick.
If his mother would only learn the value of candy "Cascarets." How children love this candy cathartic—how surely it acts on liver and bowels.

TO MOTHERS! Each 10-cent box of Cascarets contains full directions for dose for children aged one year old and upwards. Nothing else "works" the nasty bile, sour fermentations and constipation poison from the tender little bowels so gently, yet so thoroughly. Even cross, feverish, bilious children gladly take Cascarets without being coaxed. Cascarets taste just like candy. Cascarets never gripe, never sicken, never injure, ut above all, they never disappoint the worried mother.

INFLUENZA!

PEOPLE STRONGLY URGED TO CONTINUE PRECAUTIONS AS ISOLATED OUTBREAKS ARE EXPECTED THROUGHOUT WINTER.

Infection Proved Only Possible by Entrance Through Nose and Mouth of Vicious Influenza Germs.

It has been clearly established that the living virulent influenza germs are readily conveyed from one person to another.

These germs are present in the excretions of the nose, mouth and throat or other air passage and are these mucous excretions are discharged the living germs go with them.

LIVING GERMS AFLOAT.

These germs are so exceedingly small that the minutest even invisible particles of this discharge may contain these in great numbers. These discharges are most frequently and widely scattered in the air as an almost invisible spray of coughing and sneezing unless the nose and mouth are covered by a handkerchief or other efficient substitute. By this simple precaution all these dangerous germs may be kept out of the air and the largest risk of the conveyance to others of this disease avoided.

WARNINGS.

Don't become alarmed. Keep your balance, watch and give every attention to your nose and throat. Keep your mouth shut and breathe through your nose previously applying a little Forkola to the inside of the nostrils. This serves to collect and destroy the germs at the entrance to your system and before they can do any damage. Keep warmly clad and wear heavy-soled shoes. Sleep with the windows open but be careful to have ample bed clothes.

SYMPTOMS.

The first symptoms are chills, a headache and depression and in the great majority of cases a feeling of catching cold and fever. When these symptoms appear, hurry home obtaining from your druggist a small quantity of Fork-

ola. Take a hot bath, as hot as you can stand it, a hot drink, preferably hot lemonade and a good laxative and go to bed. AND NOW COMES THE IMPORTANT ADVICE. These symptoms show that the germ has a foothold. Make up your mind you'll soon be well. Keep your bedroom window open, but have heat in the room. Exercise the same care as in measles, diphtheria or smallpox. Don't allow a careless physician to minimize the importance of your case but be most careful to expectorate in gauze or in rags that must be burned and not washed.

THE PNEUMONIA OF INFLUENZA

Which is a frequent complication, while apparently very severe may disappear in a night under proper treatment and the best way for a person afflicted with influenza to avoid pneumonia is to go to bed at once and stay there until the physician permits you to get up. While in bed the back, throat and chest should be liberally covered with Forkola and flannel applied to ensure the necessary heat for its absorption. Allow a little to melt in your mouth three or four times daily. It soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and permits the easy expulsion of phlegm.

IMPORTANT—In some districts the demand for Forkola has been so heavy that there is a temporary shortage. The public are warned against accepting substitutes and to insist on Forkola as all wholesalers are supplied and your druggist, if he is sold out, can get it on short notice. Sold by T. J. Evans.—(Adv.)

Milady's Boudoir

Drink Milk and Grow Fat.

The body of milk is the best flesh-producer that I know of. Drink a couple of glasses of hot water when arising and, 15 minutes later eat half a dozen prunes that have soaked all night in warm water. Also, drink the prune juice. Fifteen minutes after this take a glass and a half of milk and, thereafter, take the same amount every hour until late in the afternoon. Eat the evening meal as usual, letting it consist of plainly-cooked foods.

Do not drink the milk hurriedly, and remember, that it has just as much nourishment as beefsteak and requires the same amount of chewing. Swish the milk around in the mouth before swallowing, as in this way it is almost entirely digested before it reaches the stomach.

Do not take milk too cold, but let it stand until the chill is off. Also, do not drink it too close to bedtime, rather get up a little earlier in the morning. The first week take three to three and a half quarts of milk, the second week five quarts, and the third and succeeding weeks at least six quarts.

For the first week take two glasses of hot water before retiring. The second week drink a glass and a half of milk for every hour of the day. Continue the hot water and prunes as directed for the first week, but omit the evening meal the second week and the two glasses of milk every hour as well weeks following. The third week take as continuing the hot water and prunes.

Our Boys and Girls

What most children need is more fancy, more poetry, more food for imagination. Every day the need becomes more apparent. Magazines, moving pictures, the average juvenile books, the talk of all about them, all tends to fetter their thoughts to the world of here-and-now and the world of has-to-be, the world we know with our five senses.

But shall they, therefore, lose their rightful inheritance in that other realm of loveliness, the world of yesterday and tomorrow, or the world of faraway or maybe? This realm is intended to be loaned to them indefinitely, prefigured in the glory of the gleam of the rainbow prism.

When I have exhausted every other means of entertaining the children on stormy days, I resort to my never-failing one. I take one of the beautiful magazine covers and paste it on a piece of cardboard. Then I cut it up into a number of irregular pieces for a picture puzzle. The older the children the more difficult I make it, and they all enjoy trying to place the puzzle together.

Correct Your Mistakes.

It is only an error in judgment to make a mistake, but it shows infirmity of character to adhere to it when discovered.

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women as well as men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep in the pink of condition, 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.
